LOST SOLDIER FIELD LARGEST SHALLOW PRODUCER IN STATE

The Lost Soldier field has again jumped into the limelight. Not satisfied with being the largest shallow field in the state by thousands of barrels, it is also trying to become a deep sand field with every indication of success.

The Blair Oil company's deep test which was started to see what the Wall Creek sand contained found the first Wall Creek sand and a heavy showing of oil last week. The well was shut down immediately as there was no arrangement for storing the oil in case the well started to flow and the hole is idle at present until sufficient tankage can be secured to take care of the production.—Casper (Wyo.) Moscow Denies Americans and British in Jail

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 29.—While a Moscow dispatch to the Rhenische Westphalian Gazette of Amsterdam states that the Entente representatives there have been liberated, latest advice from the Bolshevik capital under date of August 29 deny that the British and American diplomats ever were arrested. The dispatch to the Rhenische Westphalian Gazette says members of the Allied missions at Moscow still are in custody.

Dewitt C. Poole, the acting American consul-general at Moscow, the dispatch says, is at liberty and is awaiting a safe conduct from the German government and the conclusion of an arrangement between Russia and the Entente governments for a reciprocal return of diplomatic and consular officers before departing.

A Russian wireless message says that War Minister Trotsky denies an alleged American report that the soviets intend to arm German and Austro-Hungarian prisoners to fight the Czech-Slovaks. Trotsky adds that in the soviet army the only former war prisoners are those who have become Russian citizens.

The central executive committee of the soviets, according to the Pravda, has decreed the abolition in towns of more than 10,000 inhabitants of private and real property, the value of which exceeds a scale to be fixed by the local soviets. Mortgages of more than 10,000 rubles are annulled and the former landlords are placed on the same level as their tenants.

have piloted their teams to victory in their respective leagues and who will match their wits on the field in the annual classic. More depends upon the manager than upon any other man on a team, and to him is due a great deal of the credit for the work accomplished on the field.

This year Ed Barrow and Fred Mitchell have been the "miracle" men, two of the best strategists of the day in baseball, crafty and resourceful. When the Cubs and Red Sox meet for the supremacy in baseball, fandom may rest assured that both managers will obtain the best of which the players are capable.

Both Mitchell and Barrow have worked their way up through the ranks until they attained their present eminence in the game. Both are past masters in the art of handling men, as well as this season will show. Both were players themselves not so many years ago.

It will be recalled that this is the third year of Mitchell's leadership in Chicago. When he assumed the reins in 1916 he said he would win the championship in three years. Whether he meant the championship of the National league or the world's championship he never explained, but he has already attained the former.

Before going to the Chicago Cubs, Mitchell was assistant to George Stallings in Boston. It was largely through his efforts that the Braves moved from last place to the front in 1914 and started the world by taking four straight games from Connie Mack's Athletics in the world's series of that year. Mitchell has long been known as one of the most skilled men in the development of pitchers.

Barrow has been identified with baseball for several years, both as a manager and as an executive. His first managerial position in the major league was with the Detroit Tigers. He later was connected with several other clubs, and finally selected as president of the International league. The success of this, the greatest of the minors, was largely due to the executive ability of President Barrow.

JOE WOOD REAL 'FIND' OF SEASON

BY ALLAN MARKLEY
NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—At the end of every baseball season it is customary for the dope managers to dwell upon the "finds" of the season. Usually these "finds" are youngsters who have just broken into the game and shown their ability in one or another department of the play. This year we might classify Charley Hollocher, the sensational shortstop of the Cubs, among the "finds" or rather the best of the youngsters who appeared in the National league.

This season, however, has differed from former campaigns. It has been featured more by "comebacks" than "finds." In the American league there is hardly a real "find" among the newcomers. Much has already been written about the "comebacks"—Earl Hamilton, Nick Altrock, Fred Merkle, Joe Wood, Frank Schulte, "Babe" Adams, Phil Douglas and others.

In carefully studying the American league for a real "find" too much emphasis cannot be laid on the work of

Pell Eliminated By Murray in Tennis Meet

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 28.—In a series of bitterly fought matches, in which endurance played as prominent a part as skill, the majority of the country's leading tennis players forced their way to the fore in the third day of the annual national tennis championship at the West Side Tennis club.

The two outstanding favorites, R. Lindley Murray, the California expert, playing from Niagara Falls, and W. T. Tilden Jr., of Philadelphia, did not have to play fourth and fifth sets to win.

Murray disposed of Theodore R. Pell of New York, noted for his backhand play, in straight sets, at 6-2, 6-0, 6-0. Murray showed the result of his play and practice during the past week, and appears to be rapidly rounding into the form which has made him so formidable in the past few years.

Pell, despite his determined efforts, was almost helpless before the dashing play which the California racket stars have made famous in recent years. Murray's terrific service and smashing forced Pell on the defense the greater part of the time, and, with the exception of an occasional brilliant cross-cut back-hand stroke, Murray was always holding the advantage and the attention of the gallery of several thousand spectators.

Tilden, in eliminating Conrad B. Doyle of Washington, at 6-3, 6-1, 7-5, 6-0, can be said in a general way to have been in the same category with Murray. Doyle put up a gallant fight against the Philadelphia, but the superiority of the latter was too great to be overcome.

Doyle made a desperate stand in the third round, and led at 4-1, but Tilden put on more power and won at 7-5, with an assortment of smashes and placement aces, some of which were absolutely unreturnable.

The break of the draw gave I. Kungu an off day, but his countryman, Kashio, figured in another extremely long-drawn-out court battle which twilight found unfinished.

BARROW AND RED SOX TO BE THERE

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—"I don't want to seem too optimistic at this stage of the game, but when the time for the world's series rolls around we will be there." This was the reply of Manager Ed Barrow of the Red Sox to a request for a statement at the start of the season last spring. Although Sox were ready, and they will be the time rolled around sooner than it was expected, Barrow and the Red Sox are.

At the end of every baseball campaign more or less interest is aroused over the two successful managers who
